“The Company had strong cash flow growth during San Rafael’s ramp-up to full production in 2018 despite the significant decrease in metal prices in the second half of the year,” said Darren Blasutti, President & CEO of Americas Silver. “With the Pershing Gold shareholder votes behind us, we are looking forward to closing the Transaction immediately after CFIUS approval. We expect a concurrent Board construction approval and announcement of fully-funded financing for the Relief Canyon project. The combined company will be focused on increasing silver production and bringing Relief Canyon to first pour before the end of the 2019.”

¹ Cost of sales per silver equivalent ounce, cash costs per silver ounce, and all-in sustaining costs per silver ounce in Q4, 2017 excludes pre-production of 45,344 silver ounces and 405,162 silver equivalent ounces mined from San Rafael during its commissioning period, and for YTD 2017 excludes pre-production of 50,490 silver ounces and 435,323 silver equivalent ounces mined from San Rafael during its commissioning period, and excludes pre-production of 245,391 silver ounces and 360,530 silver equivalent ounces mined from El Cajón during its commissioning period. Pre-production revenue and cost of sales from San Rafael and El Cajón are capitalized as an offset to development costs.

During 2018, the Company produced 6.3 million consolidated silver equivalent ounces including 1.4 million silver ounces, compared to production of 4.7 million consolidated silver equivalent ounces including 2.1 million silver ounces during 2017. The significant increase in consolidated silver equivalent production with a corresponding decrease in silver production relative to 2017 was primarily the result of the San Rafael mine experiencing its first full year of operation after declaring commercial production in December 2017. San Rafael contributed over 190% greater zinc production and over 125% greater lead production, with approximately 50% lower silver production at the Cosalá operations due to mine sequencing in the part of the San Rafael deposit with the lowest silver grades. Operations at the Galena Complex were also negatively impacted by two separate operational issues in the first of half of 2018 involving its No.3 Shaft that inhibited normal hoisting for approximately 27 days in total as previously disclosed that also caused reductions in silver and lead production in 2018.

As a result of the increased silver equivalent production, revenues increased by $14.1 million or 26% from $54.3 million during 2017 to $68.4 million during 2018 despite low metal prices in the second half of the year. Net loss increased by $7.8 million from $3.5 million during 2017 to $11.3 million during 2018, largely due to non-cash and non-reoccurring items. The increase in net loss was primarily attributable to higher cost of sales as San Rafael ramped up to full production in Q4, 2018, higher depletion and amortization reflecting a full year of production from San Rafael, Pershing Gold Transaction costs, the write-down of an asset, a contingency on value added taxes, and higher income tax expense, offset by higher net revenue from increased silver equivalent production, a gain on the disposal of assets, and gains on derivative instruments.

Consolidated costs of sales were $8.29/oz. equivalent silver, by-product cash costs were negative ($0.63/oz.) silver, and AISC were $9.80/oz. silver, representing year-over-year decreases of 18%, 107%, and 26%, respectively. The improvement in cash costs was a result of the significant increase in zinc and lead production primarily from the San Rafael mine compared to 2017 when the Company's previous mine, Nuestra Señora, was in production. The base metal production increases were offset by decreases in the realized prices for zinc and lead during the year which negatively impacted by-product cash costs, and AISC.

Further information concerning the consolidated and individual mine operations is included in the Company's Consolidated Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2018 and Management's Discussion and Analysis for the same period.

2019 Consolidated Guidance

Table 2
Consolidated Results and Guidance
	2018 Actual	2019 Guidance
Silver Production (ounces)	1.4M oz.	1.6 – 2.0M oz.
Silver Equivalent Production (ounces)	6.3M oz.	6.6 - 7.0M oz.
Cost of Sales ($ per silver equiv. ounce)	$8.29/oz.	$8.00 - $10.00/oz.
Cash Costs ($ per silver ounce)	$(0.59)/oz.	$4.00 - $6.00/oz.
All-in Sustaining Costs ($ per silver ounce)	$9.82/oz.	$10.00 - $12.00/oz.
Capital Expenditures	$15M	$10M - $11M

Consolidated guidance for 2019 is 1.6 – 2.0 million silver ounces and 6.6 - 7.0 million silver equivalent ounces at cash costs of $4.00 to $6.00 per silver ounce and all-in sustaining costs of $10.00 to $12.00 per silver ounce including budgeted capital of $10 - $11 million. The increase in silver production is due to greater expected mill throughput at San Rafael in 2019 as the initial ramp up in 2018 has been completed. The increase in cash cost and all-in sustaining cost per ounce is due to the lower assumed metal prices affecting estimated by-product metal revenue from the San Rafael and Galena mines. The Company assumed $14.50 per ounce silver, $1.15 per pound zinc, $0.90 per pound lead, and an exchange rate of 19 Mexican pesos to US dollar for these guidance estimates. This guidance is supported by estimated zinc production of approximately 36-40 million lbs. and estimated lead production of 34-38 million lbs. in 2019. The Company's consolidated exploration budget for fiscal 2019 is approximately $1.5 million.

This guidance excludes construction capital and exploration spending related to Pershing Gold's Relief Canyon Mine. The Company intends to update guidance for Relief Canyon after the close of the Transaction.
